

COVERT ENTWINED HEART

2006
AN OUTBURST OF
PASSION IN LIMBO
Galleria Klerkx,
Milan, Italy

The Covert Entwined Heart is a large sculpture reminiscent of both a DNA double helix and a warm swirling heart. By turning the mills on the sides, one can activate this sculpture. The heart-shaped object symbolises a moment of passion, the in-between area of falling in love and intuition. The freshly cut palm tree refers to the smell of wildness and hangs upside down in the middle of the heart. For this sculpture Tee was inspired by the book Tropiques Tristes by Lévi-Strauss, which in its essence is a travel book lamenting the tropics, the 'lost' New World, Brazil and its native culture.

DEAR HEART

DEAR HEART

I am the soul in limbo
slowly falling to look for caress
|
burning, longing

.....alone.....

restless, alive,
living between everything and nothing
between was not and is

|
the invisible world
built on dreams

springing from emptiness
founded in a thousand places
